

©CIL 20252 ✓

✓ "DON'T PARK THERE!"

✓ MAY 28 1924 ✓

By Hal E. Roach ✓

Will Rogers lives on a ranch. He sets out for town with instructions to buy a bottle of horse liniment. When he reaches town it happens to be on a very busy day and in his efforts to find a parking place for his "flivver" arise the comedy situations which continue in his trip through many streets in his endeavors to find a parking place near a drugstore. When, in the story, he has travelled through many towns and meets with many mishaps, he finally reaches a drug store and learns on inquiry that the liniment he seeks has not been on the market for nearly twenty years. He heads for home and almost reaches there when to his amazement and disgust the old flivver tired to death slowly falls to pieces under him as the film comes to an end.

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection,
1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress